

ECONOMICS IN Washington DC

Internship sites

There is a vast field of internships for Economic students. Some of these internships include

- American Enterprise Institute
- Global Fairness Initiative
- U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Classes to take

More info on classes link: UCDC Courses

- General Research
- International Policy
- U.S. Supreme Court
- Washington Media
- Congress and Politics in Washington
- American Political Journalism
- Campaigns and Elections
- Lobbying Money & Influence in DC
- Politics & Poems (Spring semester)

Things to do

- Field-trip to Congress
- Attend a Monday Night Forum
- Visit New York, Boston, Gettysburg, Philadelphia
- Network with high officials
- Tour embassies in D.C.
- "Get coffee" with D.C. professionals
- Tour graduate and law schools

Contact your advisor

Be sure to contact your advisor for any questions you may have. A good resource is the following link:

<http://ssha-advising.ucmerced.edu/>

Welcome to UCDC

Economists study how scarce resources are allocated so that well-being is maximized. Whether the resource that is being allocated is income, time or a precious commodity, there is always some tradeoff involved. Individuals, businesses and governments face these tradeoffs in countless ways everyday. The most important thing students learn from studying economics is how to identify, measure and understand the essential elements of this tradeoff.

<http://economics.ucmerced.edu/>