

PUBLIC HEALTH IN Washington DC

Internship sites

There is a vast field of internships for Public Health students. Some of these internships include

- Alliance for Health Reform
- American Public Health Association
- Global Health Council

Classes to take

More info on classes link: UCDC Courses

- General Research
- International Policy
- U.S. Supreme Court
- Washington Media
- Congress and Politics in Washington
- American Political Journalism
- Campaigns and Elections
- Lobbying Money & Influence in DC
- Politics & Poems (Spring semester)

Things to do

- Field-trip to Congress
- Attend a Monday Night Forum
- Visit New York, Boston, Gettysburg, Philadelphia
- Network with high officials
- Tour embassies in D.C.
- "Get coffee" with D.C. professionals
- Tour graduate and law schools

Contact your advisor

Be sure to contact your advisor for any questions you may have. A good resource is the following link:

<http://ssha-advising.ucmerced.edu/>

Welcome to UCDC

Public Health has been defined as "the science of protecting and improving the health of communities through education, promotion of healthy lifestyles, and research regarding disease- and injury-prevention (www.whatispublichealth.org/what/index.html).” But Public Health is more than that...it is a way of engaging communities and building partnerships to address some of the pressing health issues facing society.

<http://publichealth.ucmerced.edu/>